

Suspect sought in attempted burglary at Cedar River Golf Course in Adams

Heather Rule
hrule@postbulletin.com

The Mower County Sheriff's Office is investigating an attempted burglary early last Friday morning at Cedar River Golf Course in Adams.

An Adams police officer stopped by the golf course parking lot while on patrol at about 1:50 a.m. Friday and noticed a pickup truck parked on the south side of a single car garage, according to the sheriff's report. The officer also noticed that a door to the clubhouse was blocked open by a chair.

The truck took off from the area, driving through a bean field before the driver allegedly ran, according to the report. The Adams officer called for backup, and Mower County deputies and the state patrol came to set up a perimeter. A state patrol helicopter also came to fly across the area.

According to the report, a large hammer, screwdriver and pry bar were found in the back of the unoccupied truck, a 1993 Toyota T-100 that was later towed from the scene. Nothing was taken from the golf course, and it doesn't sound like entry was made into the clubhouse, said Mower County Chief Deputy Mark May, though a glass door in the front was busted out.

The suspect was not located, and the case is still under investigation.