Sanford pulls out of merger talks

Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS — South Dakota-based Sanford Health pulled the plug on its merger discussions with Minneapolis-based Fairview Health Services on Wednesday, citing the hostile reception the proposal has faced in Minnesota.

Sanford now finds itself "unwelcome by some interested parties and key stakeholders of our proposed merger partner."

Fairview is one of Minnesota's largest health care providers with nearly 100 clinics and eight hospitals including the University of Minnesota Medical Center. Sioux Falls-based Sanford Health runs 35 hospitals and more than 140 clinics in eight states.

Minnesota Attorney General Lori Swanson exposed the merger discussions last month and held a hearing Sunday to air her concerns about putting the Fairview system under the control of an out-of-state company. The university, meanwhile, advanced its own proposal to acquire Fairview.

ND delegation: It will be harder to fund diversion

FARGO — North Dakota's congressional delegation says the failure of President Barack Obama to include money for a Red River diversion project in his budget is unfortunate.

The nearly $2 billion project is meant to move water around Fargo and Moorhead through a 35-mile channel. The metropolitan area of about 200,000 is preparing for its fourth major flood in five years.

Sens. John Hoeven and Heidi Heitkamp and Rep. Kevin Cramer said in a joint statement released Wednesday that the omission will make it harder for them to secure the federal share of funding for the project.

The delegation said it still hopes to get authorization from the Senate for the project.

Map shows weather disasters across state

Associated Press

DULUTH — An advocacy group is out with a new report that illustrates Minnesota's vulnerability to weather disasters.

The report released by Environment Minnesota includes a clickable online map showing that 82 of Minnesota's 87 counties have sustained federally declared weather disasters since 2007. Those disasters including flooding, tornadoes and severe storms.

Otter Tail County is shown to have had a total of three weather-related disasters between 2007 and 2012. One flood, severe storm and tornado were reported to have made the federal disaster list.

Shooting: County SWAT team was called to the scene

received a third-party call at 2:36 p.m. reporting a homicide, according to Lt. Matt McGuire.

Deputies responded to an address near the intersection of County Hwy. 35 and County Hwy. 85, between Vergas and Dent. At the time of the call, the location of the homicide was unclear, McGuire said. The county address deputies responded to was the female victim's residence, McGuire said.

Deputies blocked traffic in the area of Hwy. 35 and Hwy. 85 for about an hour Wednesday afternoon due to the situation. Eventually, they received information from Detroit Lakes that they had located the victim.

The county's SWAT team and a negotiator were also on scene at the Otter Tail County address, Officers gathered and blocked off county highways 35 and 85 on Wednesday after a shooting was reported in Detroit Lakes. The officers were gathered around the home of the victim.

according to McGuire.

Becker County deputies helped city police officers cordon off the 900 block of Washington Avenue for about an hour, until emergency responders could secure the scene.

Police say the public is not in danger.

"We're not looking for any suspects at this time," Eggebraaten said. "There is no immediate threat."

Police said the relationship between the man and woman was unclear.

The Minnesota Bureau

of Criminal Apprehension is assisting in the investigation.

Clancy: Will give hunting seminar Saturday

speech serve as another way to connect with those who enjoy his work, but it will come as another challenge in a life that has known many.

"This will be a test to see how I do with a group of people," said Clancy. "It's not something that scares me, it will just be something new."

While the topic will be new, Clancy said he will be approaching the night in the same way he has with his many seminars in the past. His hope is always to leave crowds more knowledgeable with tips they can use in the field and the same will be true when he tells his personal story on overcoming life's obstacles.

"There isn't any one message that I'm trying to carry," Clancy said. "Hopefully by having heard how I've handled the adversity in my life, it will help others overcome those in their own."

Clancy's participation with the annual Men's Night, which includes two hunting seminars on Saturday, will also afford him the opportunity to reach a new audience. With this year's event bringing a family focus on Saturday, Clancy said he hopes to welcome younger members of the audience into the world of outdoor activities that have enriched his life.

"I don't need to preach to the choir. We need to welcome young hunters and fishermen into our ranks," said Clancy. "Hopefully they'll learn some things that help them in the field as well."

Whether speaking on life or hunting, Clancy will bring his own unique sense of the world to the information he passes along. With a positive outlook and a respect for the healing and spiritual powers of the outdoors, Clancy hopes the two days will be nothing but fun for everyone who participates.

"My seminars tend to be on the humorous side," said Clancy. "It's hunting and fishing after all, it's not a matter of life or death."

Clancy's keynote speech will begin at 6:30 p.m. on Friday night. On Saturday, he will give a seminar on the basics of turkey hunting at noon and successful deer hunting at 3 p.m.

ning his vehicle into the riverwalk before stopping at a fence, according to a witness.

It was likely a medical condition that caused Evert to lose consciousness while driving, according to Fergus Falls Police.

Fergus Falls Police rescued Evert with a semi wrecker. He was transported by ambulance to Lake Region Healthcare.

The riverwalk had been closed for the winter, so no one else was hurt.
