School seeks members for 'Alumni Pep Band'

For The Journal

The Fergus Falls High School Band Department and the Fergus Falls 544 Education Foundation are teaming up to provide an exciting opportunity for alumni.

At the Fergus Falls High School Homecoming Game on Friday, Oct. 4, alumni will be able to relive some high school memories by performing with the Pep Band.

Music for the night's performance will be handed out starting at 4 in the High School Band Room at Kennedy Secondary School.

Alumni participating in the "Alumni Pep Band" should enter the doors on the east side of the school by the tennis courts. Signs will be posted throughout the building directing the way to the band room. For the evening's schedule and a list of possible music choices, please go to the Foundation's Web site: www.544foundation.org.

If you have any questions about this event, please email Mindy at 544foundation@fergusotters.org. Band director Scott Kummrow would also like to know how many alumni will be participating, so if you're interested, email Scott at skummrow@fergusotters.org.

Don't let the lack of an instrument be an excuse. Contact Scott and let him know your needs. Whether you still play on a regular basis or you haven't even opened your instrument case since graduation, consider participating in what will be an enjoyable evening.

The schedule is as follows:

4 p.m. - "Social Hour" and receive music
 5 p.m. - Pregame practice
 6 p.m. - Head over to the football field
 6 p.m. - Start playing
 When the game starts - you're done

Possible Music Selections include Hey Baby, On Broadway, Tequila, Footloose, Carnival Del Soul, Centerfold, Blue Suede

Shoes Born to Be Wild, Everybody Needs Somebody to Love, Championship and the school song, Maroon and Gold.

other during the meeting, and when they tested it out, Sievert said they had the laptop "quite a ways back."

"I don't think (Skype) was intended for a real large setting like this," Sievert said. "We can make it work. It's not going to be the best."

Cichosz asked Rundquist

how often he would be available to residents and how often he would need to use Skype instead of being present in chambers. Rundquist maintained that it wasn't just about him; this would be something that would benefit the council and the public.

Randy Synstelien was concerned that this would be another incremental add to the shoulders of city staff. Cichosz pointed out that Rundquist was the only one asking for this.

"I'm a little torn on this one," Cichosz said. "I think we need to be careful."

The people of Fergus Falls want the council members at the meetings, in person, according to Rachels.

He wasn't in favor of the change until the city could get some technology that is right for it.

On the other side, Schier offered the resolution to use the technology. Hicks also wanted to give it a chance.

"I think we should at least try it," Hicks said. "Before we prejudice what it is."

Lawsuit: Allegedly, no specific information was cited

branson and told him the Sassevilles were "going to turn his house into a Bed and Breakfast" and "have a bunch of people running in and out of the house," and that the "Sassevilles were not nice people."

At a July 2 meeting at Danner's office, the first thing Herbrandson allegedly said to Fred Sasseville was, "Let me start off by saying this has nothing to do with the color of your skin," and that he had "blacks and Mexicans that work for me."

The complaint also cites a July 3 letter from Danner, of RE/MAX Signature Properties, to the Sassev-illes' Realtor stating that "it is apparent the (plaintiffs) are unable to proceed with the purchase of the property at 504 E. Lakeside Drive."

No specific information was cited by Danner as to why the Sassevilles allegedly could not perform their obligations, the complaint says.

The Sassevilles were also reportedly told in the letter to immediately remove their things from the house, only in the presence of their Realtor, and return the keys.

The Sassevilles removed their belongings by July 4.

The complaint alleges that the actions of all defendants were intentional.

QB: Accident puts perspective on life

do for each other.

"Being at a small school like this, you know everyone pretty well," said senior Tyler Ukkelberg. "But when you strap up pads and start playing football, it's different. The friendships are tightened, being a teammate increases friendships and brings you together."

While Smith is normally upbeat, his teammates understood that he might not be the same after the accident.

But his presence there, keeping a positive attitude the whole way through, was something they felt they needed to return.

"You don't let anyone on the team get down because of it," said senior Dan Marso. "He's putting a smile on his face for us, so we should work hard for him."

Seipkes had some concern over the added pressure on Smith heading into Friday's matchup against the Eagles.

But the way he played offensively and the way his teammates would respond, blanking New York Mills 27-0, showed the team's character.

"I maybe had a little bit (of nervousness), but just knowing the type of kid Andrew is and his family,

I thought once the game started he would do the best he possibly could," Seipkes said. "When the game starts your mind is in that mindset and his was. He played an excellent offensive games for us."

On Friday night, Smith's goal was simple. But football helped put it into perspective.

"Life by the inch is a cinch. I guess I've been taking it by the inch this week, practice day by day, each class I had this week. The game was maybe a little bit bigger of an inch," Smith said with a smile. "I love playing football, but I really wanted to see my parents. I hadn't seen them since Wednesday. I wanted to come out with the win, I didn't care how we did it, I just wanted to get the win and move on to see my parents."

As the Bulldogs prepare for Friday's game against Browerville, the conference champions for the past two years, life has started to feel normal again for Smith and his family.

There is, however, a long road towards recovery, though his father was cleared to leave the hospital on Saturday and his mother may follow sometime later this week.

It's fitting, then, that the Bulldogs' biggest game of the year this Friday will also be Parents Night.

While Smith might not have both his parents, who rarely miss games, in attendance for the game, the significance won't be lost.

"It's a nice reminder," Smith said. "It definitely gives you a new perspective on life. What seems important now, like all these games, it's not that important in the grand scheme of things. It really makes you remember to say I love you more and appreciate having family members around, having parents who love you."
